A SPLENDID ENGRAVING OF THE MOST FAMOUS SWIMMERS OF ENGLAND.

Drawn and Engraved from Photographs by Messrs. MOORE & WILLIAMSON.

The object of the proprietors in presenting their subscribers with this noble group of swimming celebrities is to extend an interest in the art which is at once a graceful accomplishment, a healthful exercise, and a necessary item in the education of the masses.

The following is a list of the Portraits:—

BECKWITH.	PICKARD.	UNDERHILL.
WALKER.	STILES.	DAVIS.
RAMAGE.	DOXOVAN.	PEYTON.
HOWSON.	RUFFLES.	BOYCE.
WOODBRIDGE.	POULTON.

ANGLING.

THE gray trout of Ulleswater are sometimes, though seldom, taken by trolling. Shameful devastation is, however, made among them during the late part of autumn, when they run up the becks to spawn. Specimens have been taken, I believe (but I speak from hearsay) up to 20lb weight.

On a fine summer's day, when there is no wind on the lake, large eels may be speared from a boat as they are seen basking on the smooth pebbles. Perch abound almost everywhere. It may be remarked, en passant, that Bassenhwaite, a good sized lake that lies under Skiddaw, is the best spot for perch and pike. The former fish, indeed, locally called "bass," may be caught there almost at will.

Few of the becks which come into Ulleswater on the north are worth fishing. The wash from the lead mines has spoiled several. That which comes from Grisdale used, however, to have a good many small trout in it, though they run small. By far the best of these becks is the one that runs through Martindale Forest, and enters Ulleswater three or four miles down the south side. It may be reached from the head of the lake by a stiltish climb, and by crossing what is called "The Horse," a sort of pass on Place Fell. It should be fished immediately after a flood, and at that time good trout may be taken out of it. Towards its junction with the lake, a gray trout is sometimes chased upon in autumn by those who use the minnow or murderous salmon-roe.

Crossing Brompton Fell, a mile or two above Pooley Bridge, the angler will strike the head of a pretty good beck, which, if there is water enough in it, he may fish down almost to Hawes Water. This lake affords good trout fishing. It is preserved, however, I believe, by the Earl of Lonsdale. "Old Jimmy the Lowther's ghost," tradition says, used to haunt the crag at the head of the lake.

From Hawes Water issues the Lowther, a dark little river, which, passing the village of Ashkham, then running by the stately castle, and through the pleasant grounds of the great family of its own name, after a five miles' course, joins the Eamont hard by the grim old keep of the no less grim ex-chancellor, versatile alike in talents and proclivities.

The fishing of the unsupervised part of the Lowther will scarcely repay the angler, but there are few pleasanter summer's day rambles than down its northern bank.

Distant from Penrith, about three miles northward, is the Petterell, a brook (for in no part of its course is it entitled to a more pretentious name) which meanders through rich meadow-land, running for some miles nearly parallel with the old Carlisle-road. It is famed for the delicate flavour of its trout, which, however, are very shy. When the hay harvest is over permission to fish many parts of it may be had from the resident farmers or millers. At best, however, it is only good as a "pis aller." In common with most trout streams adjacent to a ready market, it is much poached. I once came upon two men—weavers, I fancy, from "bonny Carlisle"—who were wading waist-deep down its narrow, steep-banked channel, "harrying" the water as they went by the simple process of "groping," i.e., by thrusting their arms and hands into likely holes under the roots of trees or large stones, and taking their chance of a trout. A good chance it had proved in their case, as they had got them the better for their craft a strip of whalebone was attached to their wrists, passing down the palm of the hand, secured again by ligatures along the finger to the end of the middle finger, where it terminated in a good sized hook. This was, of course, intended to prevent the fish slipping out of the fingers.

The waters of the north are unfortunately poached in many ways. The net, of course, notwithstanding all precautions, is piled with deadly effect. There used to be, in the neighbourhood of Penrith, a female poacher, a great swimmer—in fact almost amphibious—who knew right well the deep pools of Fannou, and how to clear them of their denizens. On the small streams of Northumberland, the "mell," or mallet, is a most destructive implement. It is a large, long-handled, wooden-headed hammer, and is used only when the water is very low with the summer heats. The method of working is as follows:—The poacher seeks the partially dried-up pools, in which, from the shallowness or non-existence of the water in other parts of the "burn," the trout have force, each large, loose stone likely to form a cover for fish. This stuns the trout beneath, which soon, feebly floating on their sides, quit their hiding-place, only to be transferred to the ample pockets of the red dress labourer.

A donkey load of lime distributed among half a dozen good pools will kill sackfuls of trout. Before the beginning of May, a great many trout, in certain rivers, fall victims to night-lines. After that time the baits are, fortunately, monopolised, for the most part, by eels. "Coculus indicus," and other drugs of that description, kill only white fish, as dace, &c. Trout are not to be deluded by them.

BIRD BREEDING.

(To the Editor of the "Illustrated Sporting News.")

DEAR SIR,—A Constant Reader "will find very useful information upon bird breeding in a little work entitled "The British Aviary and Bird Breeder's Companion,"—London: printed by and for Wm. Cole, 10, Newgate-street; 12mo, no date. There is also another, same size, with better illustrations, but not so generally useful, by J. Nash, 1824.—Yours faithfully, Rosetta House, Gorseston, Yarmouth, C. J. W. WINTER.

WINNER OF THE FIRST PRIZE FOR THOROUGH-BREDS AT THE R. A. SOCIETY'S ANNUAL MEETING
(From a Drawing by BEN. HERRING, Esq.)

Lord Portsmouth's Avacadora filly, 8st 2lb Goater 1 †
 Mr. E. Brayley's Tom Fool, 8st 7lb Page 2 †
 Mr. W. Day's Muezzin, 8st 7lb J. Adams 3
 Also ran:—Gamuzo, Elcot's dam colt, Tademus, The Squaw filly, Knave of amps, Gelert, Blindin, and Laurel.
 Setting: 2 to 1 agst Muezzin, 3 to 1 agst the Avacadora filly, 7 to 8 agst Tom

As the competitors roll the hill into the square in the centre of the course, with Muezzin on the whip hand and Tom Foot on the rear side, the course slightly in advance of the rest. Descending the hill Muezzin leads the runner, followed by Tom Foot and Lord Portsmouth's filly. At the commencement of the Stand enclosure the favourite was beaten, and Tom Foot and the Ayacucho filly singled themselves out, and a most exciting race resulted. The dead heat was decided by the Ayacucho filly, who was the "dead heaters." The filly's race was won by three-quarters of a length.

Dead Heat.—Even betting, the filly for choice. The Ayacucho filly led slightly until the end of the enclosure had been reached, when Tom Foot made his effort, and, though having the best of it, Lord Portsmouth's filly, running with extraordinary gameness, won by three-quarters of a length.

TATTERSALL'S.

MONDAY.—There were apparently some heavy amounts to settle over the preceding week's racing, and in the City during the morning so entirely had his occupied affairs that he did not appear at the meeting. The publication of the weights for the Goodwood Stakes has not given an impetus to betting to the extent that might have been anticipated, and the announcement that the acceptances will there be any betting of consequence. The general tendency of opinion is decidedly adverse to the handicapper, and many persons insist on looking no further than William Day's and American lists to furnish the winner. Both are represented by a powerful team, and both have unquestionably received favourable treatment from the handicapper. The transactions of the afternoon will be found amply indicated in the following list.

CITY BETTING—THURSDAY.

The betting in the city was of a very limited description on all the events of the day, the most spirited betting on the Goodwood Cup at Newton and the Goodwood Handicap. Wynnstay was backed very freely at even for the Cup, and Paradis at 2 to 1 for the Handicap, the only other in force being Harriet at 2 to 1. Thunderbolt was made the favourite for the Stockbridge Cup, as low as 2 to 1 being taken at the finish, and Magdore was also trusted with good money to 1 to 2. The Wizard was the only animal backed for the Seward's Plate, and 2 to 1 was freely taken on him against the field on any future events.

Mr. Jackson has purchased Anty, owner of the Grand Stand Plate at Newcastle, and has gone into the Tupperley.
We regret to announce the death of William Tate, lively stable keeper, Newcastle, which occurred at his house on Thursday, the 26th of June. Mr. Tate was well known, a capable horseman, and he has frequently ridden as a professional in hunters' races.
The entries for the Epsom Derby, the Oaks, and the Doncaster St. Leger, are to be made on Monday.
Sir B. Blandy proposes to run the 1000 guinea stake in future on the R.M. instead of the D.M.
A general meeting of the Jockey Club is to be held at Newmarket on Tuesday next.
The Whip is to be challenged for on the 14th inst.
Master Parnock is out of training.
Several stakes closed on Tuesday next at Hungerford, Ipswich, Liverpool Southampton, and Stamford.

PEDESTRIANISM.

NEW COPENHAGEN GROUNDS, HOLWAY.

On Saturday last these grounds were first attended to witness the sports set down for decision, the first being the 150 Yards Handicap, which brought eight yds. In the final heat: Ann, 22 first; Nigra, 21 second; Chanters, 23 third. The first man took the lead all the way, winning by two yards, Chanters well up for third. Proceeds to the final heat being the 150 Yards Handicap, the heats took place on Saturday last: First prize, 44s. second, 12s. third, 6s. the following being the winners: Nigra, 22 first; Nigra, 21 second; Chanters, 23 third. 140 second; Hamilton, 130 third; Lewis, 120, Hudson, 100, Shima, 110, and Sanderson, 120, also started. When the signal was given to go, Shima led, and in the first heat, the race soon began to tell upon the other runners, and in the second heat, the pace followed suit, the others going well. Green holding the lead till coming in the straight, when Corrick and Whitten brought down upon him, the three running in a close race, and Whitten being just got in front and landed him off. SHOOTING.

HORNSEY WOOD HOUSE.

The members of the club mustered in force on Saturday last, and six handicap sweepstakes were shot for by nineteen members, 1 sov each, three birds each. The first was divided between Mr. Capel and Mr. Robertson, after trying no less than four rounds; the second was taken by Col. Burnand and Mr. Capel; the third by Col. Annesley, after trying with Sir Hugh Campbell, Mr. Heathcote, and Lord Stormont; the fourth by Col. Wheatley, after trying with Mr. Spencer Leary, Sir Hugh Campbell, Mr. Robertson, and Mr. Walsh; the fifth by Mr. Leslie, after trying with Col. Burnand; and the sixth by Mr. Capel, after trying with Mr. Gilmour, Col. Annesley, and Col. Burnand.

THE GREAT PIGEON SHOOTING MATCH BETWEEN MR. HARRIS AND MR. WILSON, FOR £100 A SIDE.

On Monday afternoon the habitués of old Hornsey Wood House mustered in great force to witness the match between Messrs. Harris and Wilson, for the sum of £200. The conditions of the match were—25 yds rise, the use of both barrels, 5 traps 5 yds apart, Hammond to find birds and trap for Wilson, and Barber to find similar offices for Harris; Wilson to shoot at 50 birds, and Harris at 51; the enclosure the boundary; the money to be staked on the ground, where the umpires and referee were to be chosen. The match was originally fixed for two o'clock, but it was long after that hour before there was any signs of business. The preliminaries were amicably adjusted, and Mr. Edward Smith was chosen stakeholder and referee. Mr. Wood acted as umpire for Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Woody looked after the interests of Mr. Harris. The match was a very close one, and occasioned a vast amount of speculation. At one time 60 to 40 was offered on Wilson, with but few takers; then again, during the shooting at the last dozen birds, the friends of Mr. Harris brought the betting to even. It will be seen by the annexed score how closely the match proceeded until near the close, when Mr. Harris's continued ill luck turned the tables in favour of Mr. Wilson, who only missed two in the last ten shot at—

Thus, in shooting at 49 birds, Mr. Harris killed 27, and Mr. Wilson 31. The match proceeded and terminated without any of those exhibitions of party feeling usually indulged in on similar occasions.

On Tuesday there was again a great meeting of the aristocratic patrons of trap-shooting, and several matches and handicap sweepstakes came off. The first was a match at twenty-five birds each, 50 yds rise, from five traps, between Captain Peyton and Captain Burnand, which was won by the former by five birds. Score—
Captain Peyton. 1 1 0 0 1 0 1 1 1 1
1 1 1 1 1 1 0 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
Captain Burnand. 1 1 0 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
1 1 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 1 0 1 1

Then came a match between the Hon. G. Heathcote, M.P., and Captain Peyton, on the same terms as the above match, and this time the gallant Captain was doomed to suffer defeat, being at the twenty-third round two birds to the bad. Score—
The Hon. G. Heathcote. 1 1 1 0 1 1 1
0 1 1 1 0 0 0 1 1 1 0 0 0 1 0 1 1
1 1 0 0 1 0 1 1 1 0 1 1 1 1 1 1

Seventeen then entered their names to shoot for the usual 1 sov handicap sweepstakes, of which six were decided. LEEDS.—On Monday the match between J. Donald, of Kirby Ireth, Cumberland, and Thos. Foster, of Althwick, near York, to shoot at 100 birds each, for £200 a side, Donald to use 14oz. shot, Foster to use 14oz., 21 yds rise, and 60 yds boundary, was commenced at Wetherby. They had only time to shoot at 25 birds each. Foster killed 20 and Donald 15. They were to shoot at 75 birds each at Leeds on Tuesday, but when they had shot at 12 each a wrangle took place, and they gave up shooting, and the affair now remains in status quo. Wm. Scurr, of Kibworth, will shoot a match at pigeons with Roscoe, alias Browns, of Newcastle, to shoot at 100 birds each, for £200 or £200 a side, 21 yds rise, 60 yds boundary, to use 14oz. or 14oz. shot; the guns to rest upon a table 30in. high until the bird is on the wing. To trap and find birds for each other. To have two days shooting, one day at Quarry-cop Sporting Grounds, near Bradford, Yorks, and the other at any place Roscoe may appoint. A match can be made by Roscoe sending a deposit to J. Holden, White Lion, Manchester, and address to Jas. Lee's, Gardner's Arms, Eagle-street, Oldham.

AQUATICS.

THAMES NATIONAL REGATTA.

The great annual aquatic meeting at Putney under this title commenced on Monday, under the auspices of the Thames Subscription Club. The weather was very fine, and the attendance of spectators very large. The races in this regatta are open to the world, and there were several features of interest upon the list.

The sport commenced at three o'clock with the Thames Waterside Crews' Four-oared Race, in old-fashioned boats, outrigger fore and aft; open to residents of not less than six months' standing within a radius of half a mile from the river side; in the case of freemen or apprentices the place from which they hail to be deemed sufficient. The following is the result of the various contests:—

FIRST HEAT.

Hammersmith crew	1
Lambeth crew	2
The Tim Whiffler crew	0

The Hammersmith Crew—J. Holder, T. Hoare, jun., T. Hoare, G. Green (stroke), and T. Green (cox).

THE SURREY LADS.—J. Woodland, C. Joyce, C. Dixon, J. Dixon (stroke), and J. Dixon, jun. (cox).
WESTERN CREW, HAMMERSMITH.—M. Beckett, T. Rust, C. Gibson, T. Wolscroft (stroke), and T. Gibbs (cox).

THE RORY O'MORE CREW.—G. Cooper, C. Moore, J. Benny, H. Freshwater (stroke), and W. Innes (cox).
It was a very fine race throughout. They were all level, and so they continued up to the Duke's Head, where the Rory O'More drew a slight lead, but in the next moment they lost it, the crews again all falling level. The pace was exceedingly good, and in the same regular line as at starting they continued up to the point, where the Western crew made a fine start, and drew a little out, but in the course of a few strokes were challenged by the Surrey, who, rushing in front at Craven Cottage, afterwards kept it, and ultimately won by four lengths; the Rory O'More dropped astern towards the finish.

GRAND HEAT.

The Hammersmith crew	1
Lambeth crew	2
Western Hammersmith	0
Surrey lads	0

The winners with the best station took the lead, followed by the Western at a fine pace, but the Lambeth immediately came at a dashing pace into the second place, and again and again made some desperate efforts for first, but the winners maintained the lead, winning by two lengths; there was the same distance between the second and third.

The course in the above races was between Putney-bridge and Chiswick Eyt. FAIR-OARED RACE, OPEN TO THE WORLD.

E. Winslip and R. Chambers, Newcastle	1
H. Kelly, Putney; W. Bell, Richmond	0
H. Clasper and J. H. Clasper, Newcastle	0

The last named pair were the renowned Harry Clasper and his son, but Winslip and Chambers (the non-resident champion of the Thames) were the favourites; the second named pair, Kelly (the ex-champion of the Thames) and his partner being, however, backed by some people. The Claspers had the best position, being on the Middlesex side. They were admirably started, and all went away together, Kelly with a momentary lead. Winslip and his partner immediately after began to draw slightly, and the Claspers looked well for second place, Kelly and his partner not being able to keep their boat steady. Winslip and Chambers continually gained, took by foot, until off the committee's barge, where they were exactly their own length clear. Up to this the other two boats were strictly level, but here Kelly and Bell settling down to their work more steadily, suddenly flashed nearly half a length ahead of the Claspers, when the latter just below the point, as they were passing the point, being on the Middlesex side, and the others went right away, Winslip and his partner winning by ten lengths easily.

WATERMEN'S APPRENTICES RACE IN OUTRIGGER BOATS.

OPEN TO APPRENTICES FROM OXFORD TO GRAVESEND INCLUSIVE.

FIRST HEAT.

J. W. Tagg, Molesey	1
J. Callas, Richmond	2

These were the only two who came to the post, and as the first two were entitled to row in the grand heat there was no necessity for an effort.

SECOND HEAT.

G. Wise, Kew	1
G. Sheppard, Chelsea	2
H. Stratford, Lambeth	0

Wise went off with a slight lead, but received a slight check by not getting his water clear on one of his sculls, and the others were full level again. Wise, off the committee's barge, renewed the lead, and, going in advance, won as he liked. Stratford dashed into the second place off the point, but, rowing wildly, went into the bank, and the others proceeded onward.

GRAND HEAT.

J. W. Tagg, Molesey	1
G. Sheppard, Chelsea	2
G. Wise, Kew	0

This race started downwards from Hammersmith-bridge, to finish at Putney Wise, with an exceedingly bad place, took the lead, after several false starts. Tagg, on the other side, and much advantaged by position, immediately afterwards became level with and passed him at the Soap Works, after which Tagg left them all, and won as he liked. Sheppard then went ahead of Wise and in the last half mile Callas also outrowed him.

THE LAMBETH CREW.—E. Carter, A. Hopkins, J. Chapman, R. Bain (stroke), and J. Hill (cox).

THE TIM WHIFFLER CREW.—A. Spice, G. Beckett, T. Royal, W. Martin (stroke), and J. Brown (cox).

A crew also went under the title of "The Temple," but they did nothing in the race, and left off before the distance was finished. All four started evenly, and then the Hammersmith and the Lambeth became level, and off the committee barge just above Shimmer's the Hammersmith crew led by half their length, the Lambeth being second, and at the point the winners drew themselves clear, and, increasing their lead, won by five lengths. There was as great a gap between the Lambeth and Tim Whiffler crews, the others having retired from the contest.

SECOND HEAT.

TUESDAY.
The attendance was much larger than on Monday, the weather fine and favourable, if we except a little too much wind, but on the whole a better day could not have been wished for.

The rowing commenced at three o'clock with the METROPOLITAN TRADESMAN'S FOUR-OARED RACES. In old fashioned boats, rigged fore and aft. The first boat in each of the first and second heats to contend in the third heat for the first prize, and the beaten crews of all the heats, having rowed the entire course, to start in the fourth heat for the second and third prizes.

FIRST HEAT.
Western crew, Hammersmith	1
Temple crew	0
Fulham crew	0

THE WESTERN CREW.—M. Beckett, T. Rust, C. Gibson, T. Wolsencroft, and T. Gibbs (cox).
THE TEMPLE CREW.—W. Spencer, G. Barnes, J. Fricker, J. McGuire, and R. Cook (cox).
THE FULHAM CREW.—G. Adams, G. Culver, J. Hester, R. Langston, and J. Mansell (cox).
It was a very finely rowed race, and only won after a game struggle.

SECOND HEAT.
Lambeth crew	1
Rory O'More crew	0
THE LAMBETH CREW.—S. Carter, A. Hopkins, J. Chapman, R. Bain, and J. Hill (cox).
THE RORY O'MORE CREW.—G. Cooper, C. Moore, J. Benny, H. Freshwater, and W. Innes (cox).

The winners started with the lead, and were so superior to their opponents that they went right away, were never overtaken, and won at their ease.

GRAND HEAT.
Lambeth crew	1
Western crew	0
The Lambeth crew took the lead immediately after the start, retained it throughout, and ultimately won with ease.

THE FOURTH, OR LOSERS' HEAT.
The Temple crew	1
The Fulham crew	2
